Profile

To whom it may concern,

My name is Lutho Jara and I am a self-taught software developer and while that might make you worried you can be anything but.

Being self-taught has kept me on my toes, and always made sure that I am on top of my needs. But the one thing that matters to you is that I can do the job.

With a little help and a little guidance, I can truly set out to achieve anything required of me.

I have great problem-solving skills that means I can break down any large problem into small achievable tasks until the main goal is reached.

I use these skills to tackle challenges as well as maneuver and cohesively work within a team.

Soft skills are very important to me as I believe they complement the technical skills. I understand that communication is key to the success of any worthwhile endeavor.

I can understand the need and requirements of others in order to understand the MVP and implement successfully then go further beyond to truly achieve the best result.

Being a self-taught developer has taught me to be open-minded and research thoroughly, thus with these skills I am flexible partaking any role required for the needs and goals of the company.

I love to see others flourish and if needed I am willing to give tips and pointers where required.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Kind regards

Lutho Jara
